

houses there," he added, "they simply did their duty as they have always been doing it."

Regarding the Devery affair and the expected shake-up in the Department, Supt. Byrnes said he was not planning to say anything until the time comes. He was not in the habit of telling beforehand what he intended doing.

Referring to the fact that Supt. Byrnes was said to be planning to make a shake-up in the Department, Supt. Byrnes said he was not planning to say anything until the time comes. He was not in the habit of telling beforehand what he intended doing.

"I know, however, that places of ill repute in the Tenderloin precinct are being closed," he said, "and that the closing of these places will have the effect of turning the inmates from their career of crime."

"It may be so, but not immediately," he said. "The progress of reformation in any particular case is a long and slow process. The progress of reformation in any particular case is a long and slow process."

"We have had all the police shake-ups we want," the superior police captain put their noses to the grindstone, the better for all concerned. Shake-ups will not do anything to the police, but down to roots in their new precincts and tap the people with the same old regularity."

"The closing of the Tenderloin houses is just a part of the general policy of the law when it pays them to do so."

More Affidavits in the Hearing Before Justice Barnard.

The Gravesend (Ex) Mops His Face as the Tables Turn.

Chief Justice Joseph F. Barnard came down from Poughkeepsie to Brooklyn this morning to conduct the second day's hearing of John Y. McKane charged with bribery.

As early as 9 o'clock politicians began to gather in large numbers in room 13 of the Brooklyn Court House. When Justice Barnard arrived he decided to hold court in the chambers of the Board of Supervisors downstairs.

There was one woman among the audience. She was Miss Marie Devoy, the young woman, practiced law, and had come to the hearing of McKane in order to hear the argument of the learned counsel.

Like the rest of the audience who were acquainted with law she was anxious for the trial to take its course. The chief point of the case. That the case has attracted widespread attention in cities outside of Brooklyn and New York was evident from the fact that several men had come from other cities to hear it.

The case, which was heard in the chambers of the Board of Supervisors, was a sensational one. It was the first time in the history of the city that a man had been charged with bribery.

Two Colored Waiters Found Unconscious on the Police Boat Patrol.

Joseph Washington, forty-eight years old, and Sandy Burney, aged twenty, colored waiters on the police boat patrol, had a narrow escape from suffocation by gas on board the boat this morning.

At a o'clock fireman Watson went to awaken the waiters for their morning routine. He found them unconscious and found the place full of escaping gas.

Both the waiters were unconscious when they were found.

Watson called roundsman Clark, and the men were dragged out on the dock.

The waiters were taken to the hospital. They will recover.

Washington went to bed about 9 o'clock last night and Burney went to bed about 10 o'clock.

There are some clothes hooks near the burner and it is supposed that the waiters had been sleeping in the room.

Washington waited on the officers and Burney waited on the officers.

Both the waiters were unconscious when they were found.
